NEGOTIATIONS REOPENED FOR RIGHTS OF WAY FOR OCEAN SHORE BOULEVARD

Commission May Yet Secure Old Ocean Roadway as Route of Highway

PRICE CLAIMED TOO HIGH

Cause of the Abandonment of Proposed Route

Efforts to reopen the negotiations for the purchase of the right of way of the defunct Ocean Shore railway after the route had been rejected by the directors of the joint-highway district several weeks ago because of the price demanded by the owners of the right of way, will be made. Negotiations were reopened for the acquisition of the right of way according to an authorization made by the directors of the joint road district this week. The district is comprised of the counties of San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Cruz.

The direct cause of the abandonment of the present plans and the discussion of the selection of a route somewhat higher up the mountains was a decision in the San Mateo county superior court by Judge Maurice Dooling, San Francisco, granting the defunct railroad and the McNee company a total of $112,000 for lands, a price which the commission declares "prohibitive."

The route affected by the negotiations is that around Pedro mountain on the coastside of the county near Montara. It is the desire of the joint highway district to use the abandoned right of way of the railway, and the old railway tunnel through the point of the mountain.

The meeting at which the directors decided to reopen dealings with the owners of the property was held in the city hall in San Francisco. San Mateo county's representative on the joint-highway commission is Supervisor Manuel Francis of Halfmoon Bay.

San Mateo Bandits Taken to Stockton

They are to be tried for robberies alleged to have been committed by them in that county. Both are now serving a year's jail sentence imposed by Judge Geo. H. Buck for the burglary of the store of the Halfmoon Bay Mercantile company.

Kaylor Crockett, another member of the gang was taken last week to the Preston reformatory for his part in the robbery, and Miss Lucille Goodspeed, one of the two female members of the gang is also in a reformatory. Her sister, Mrs. Freaner, is at liberty on her own recognizance.

Woman Dies After Years of Service

Mrs. Stammer, Left Fortune By Cousin, Dies Before Receiving Money

For many years Mrs. Annie Stammer devoted all of her efforts to the care of her invalid cousin, Miss Elizabeth Hadler. Miss Hadler was confined to a wheel chair for fifteen years before her death last January, through a stroke of paralysis. During that time her cousin had waited on her hand and foot.

When Miss Hadler's will was probated it was found that the faithful and devoted services of her cousin had been rewared, for with the exception of one bequest of $500, all of an estate valued at more than $10,000 was left to Mrs. Stammer.

Fate proved a cruel jester, however, for within two months and ten days after the woman she had served for years had been laid to rest, Mrs Stammer passed away at her home on Stambaugh street She had been ill but a short time, and it was not until a day or two before her death that the seriousness of her illness became apparent

Mrs. Stammer was a native of California. She had been a resident of this city for the past 25 years, having come here shortly after the death of Miss Hadler's mother, Mrs. Claus Hadler. Her husband, John Stammer, had died just a short time before, and she continued to make her home here, caring or her cousin after the latter was rendered helpless more than 15 years ago. She is survived by her brother, Charles H. Backer.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9 o'clock from her late residence at 225 Stambaugh street, thence to Mt. Carmel Catholic Church, where a mass will be celebrated. Interment will be in Holy Cross cemetery, Colma.

Pommes' hit in the fifth period was followed by a couple of errors that let him in, and more errors in the sixth enabled Carl Shine to make the rounds.

Gatchell pitched steady ball for Sequoia, striking out 14 would-be batsmen. He and Pommes were backed up by fairly good fielding, while the Belmont team was responsible for a number of errors in the fourth.

Bob Kenaston of Belmont scored on three errors in the fourth inning by Sequoia fielders.

The Cherokee team, coached by Coach Frank Griffin, defeated the Jefferson high school lightweights in the first game of the season last week 10 to 2. Spanish Romance To Be Relived In Yearly Rose Fiesta

San Jose Preparing for Big Time in Annual Fiesta de las Rosas

The discovery of San Francisco Bay, Byrd's flight to the pole, the invention of the steam engine, and scores of other events outstanding in the history of the world, will be seen in the Santa Clara County Fiesta de las Rosas floral parade which will be held in San Jose May 16, the parade committee decided yesterday when it chose "Historical Events" as the theme for the 1931 spectacle.

Nearly a score of floats are already entered, all of which will be completely covered with greens and flowers. This indicates, according to J. Elmer Mooris, president of the Fiesta, that the event will be larger this year than it has been since its inception five years ago. During preceding years float entries have started just a few weeks before the event.

Several attractions which have not been used in previous years have been adopted by the Fiesta for its three days of celebration on May 14, 15, and 16. Outstanding are a series of athletic events in which all children of the county will be asked to participate. There will also be baseball, tennis, bicycle races, swimming, boxing, wrestling and an open tournament at the Hill View golf club to appeal to grown-ups.

An outdoor pageant presenting the earliest Spanish-American love affair of Santa Clara County will be given two nights during the Fiesta The play is being written by members of the cast, more than 500 of which will be seen in the pageant. Mrs. Adelaide De Soto, daughter of the two people concerned in the romance, is giving her story of it for the thread of the play.

Give the Local Man a Chance

EDITORIAL

With so much unemployment, it would seem but fair that when a chance is presented here in Redwood City to hire a workman that the first opportunity should be presented to the local workman. Particularly the man with a home and family here, and who is an integral part of our community. This is the man whose wages are spent with Redwood City merchants, paying Redwood City taxes, and building up Redwood City's business district.

We have here an organization of workmen, the carpenters union, numbering a membership of 130 at the present time. These men are able workmen; yet many of them have not been able to secure work for months.

Still there are numerous buildings being erected here. On many of these, however, the contractor brings a crew of workmen from the city or from some other point. These men mean nothing to Redwood City—spend nothing here, do not live here, and assist in no way in the improvement of the city.

One of the largest buildings being erected at the present time is being built entirely by outside workmen. This fact is galling to the many carpenters of Redwood City who must stand idle and see men brought in from the outside to do what little work is to be done here. This building is being built for the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, but is being built on contract and the contractor hires the men.

The city has specified that on all city contracts, local men shall be hired whenever possible. It would be a gracious gesture on the part of the big public utility companies if they would pursue the same practice, and one that would be appreciated by the workmen of each city where construction work is done.

The other members of the board are Walter T. Kellogg, the chairman of the board, Donald W. Williams and Chales A. Merrill, of Menlo Park.

In the elementary school district John W. Poole is running for reelection without opposition.

The polling place in Redwood City will be in the Redwood City Central school on Broadway. In other districts the polling place will be in the elementary schools of each district. Polls will be open in this district from 7 o'clock in the morning until 8 in the evening, The other elementary school districts will fix their own time for keeping the polls open. The polls must be open at least four hours during the day.

S. M. Police Nab Man for Checks

James O'Connor, 27, a baker, was brought to the county jail by deputy Sheriffs Neri and Maloney on a charge of passing fictitious checks. O'Connor was arrested by San Mateo police when he tried to pass a check of $25 on a chain grocery store. A bad check had been passed by a man answering O'Connor's description on the Burlingame branch of the same store a few days before, and the clerk became suspicious and summoned the police. The writing on the two checks is declared by police to be identical.

O'Connor is being held at the county jal in lieu of $1000 cash bail or $2000 bond.

Caddy Master Faces Charge

Giving Liquor to Young Girl Results in Arrest of Beresford Man

Fred Bratton, caddy master at the Beresford country club, was brought to jail here Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Meeks and charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Bratton is held in connection with the same case which resulted in the arrest of Johannes Neilsen on Saturday.

Two young girls of Belmont, one 16 and one 13, were given liquor, allegedly by Neilsen and Bratton. The younger girl was later taken ill as the result of her drinking, and was taken to the Mills Memorial hospital. The drinking is said to have taken place after the two girls attended a theatre with Bratton.

Neilsen was later released upon posting $500 cash bail.

Buck Upheld in Fight for Ring

Miss Iris McPherson on Wednesday won her fight for possession of a diamond ring which her uncle, the late Thomas A. Kelly, Woodside rancher, left for her and Miss Hazel Stirling to shake dice for. Miss McPherson won it without shaking the dice.

Miss McPherson and Miss Stirling were preparing to shake dice for the ring when Miss Sterling was taken ill and died. She willed her interest in the ring to her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Stirling, but Miss McPherson protested and Superior Judge George H. Buck ruled the rin gshould go to Miss McPherson, because it was apparent the uncle wanted either of the girls to have it.

Mrs. Stirling appealed to the district court of appeals and there the opinion of Judge Buck was upheld.

Flagman's Sentence Being Considered

Attorney F. W. Comba appeared in the superior court yesterday and asked for a new trial for his client, John Larkim, who was found guilty on a statutory charge by a jury on Monday. Mr. Comba argued at some length on legal points. Judge Buck denied the motion. Comba then urged that the defendant be sent to the county jail instead of San Quentin. He claimed that the statute was flexible and liberal on the subject and could be so construed as to the imposition of the lesser sentence. The court was rather inclined to agree with him. The matter was taken into consideration until tomorrow. The court also allowed a motion to refer the matter to the probation officer.

Boys Losing Interest in Baseball

Baseball is losing its hold on the American boy, according to a survey made by the Boys' Club Federation of America which embraces 253 Boys' Clubs with a membership nearly 250,000.

In many communities boys are abandoning baseball because of lack of places to play and because of cost of equipment. Boys in many cities, according to the survey, are playing "indoor baseball" out-of-doors because only one large, soft ball and one bat and no gloves are required.

In cities where local citizens have provided baseball fields and furnished the boys with baseballs, bats and gloves, regulation baseball is still as popular as ever.

"If owners of the major and minor leagues are interested in the American boy's attitude toward baseball," said C. J. Atkinson, executive director of the Boys' Club Federation, "they should concern themselves not so much with the boys' lack of interest as with the fact that they need a place to play and some equipment. For example used baseballs could be turned over to Boys' Clubs with athletic fields."

The survey shows also that "Babe" Ruth is the most popular boy's hero in communities where baseball is played but in those cities where boys have no place to play baseball, they regard Colonel Charles Lindberg as their hero.

The Boys' Club Federation is an organization which encourages the establishment of Boys' Clubs in neighborhoods of cities where there are the largest number of underprivileged boys.

Religion's Opportunity

Churches of all denominations have just received a call to world service of the highest type from Dr. Henry A. Atkinson, general secretary of the World Conference for International Peace through Religion. "The churches and the religious agencies of the world can help in creating the right atmosphere for the International Disarmament Conference to be held in February 1932," he states. "That conference, if it succeeds, will mark a great step forward toward world peace." World peace, we are learning, can neither be legislated nor conferenced into being, until people everywhere have been educated in the principles of friendly relationships between neighbors as well as between nations. Here is a task in which religious persons of every creed and every sect can unite. Separate though the churches may be in matters of doctrine and dogma, there can be little division of opinion, in principle at least, regarding disarmament.

The World Conference for International Peace through Religion is itself dedicated to this task, and has many leaders of the world faith among its officers; but without the earnest convictions of the churches' rank and file its efforts will be slow. During the present year and in the year to come, religion will have an opportunity to show its vitality and power in helping to solve a problem which everybody recognizes but in the face of which the individual is inclined to feel rather helpless.

Watch Your Friends

A county official who has much to do with payrolls has on his desk this formula, 'Watch Your Friends." Friends are the finest things in life when they are friends. When a man has no money, he has no trouble with his no particular influence in the community and has no money, he has no touble with his friends and he has no trouble in discovering who are his friends and who are merely professional friends.

When a man is elected to office and power is placed in his hands he has friends flocking about his desk from every direction and they all remind him of their friendship and end by asking favors. A pretty good rule is to regard as friends those who are not willing to ask favors which might embarrass and to list on the other side of the line the fellows who desire to capitalize what they call friendship.

A tax "expert" is an otherwise good fellow who has gone bughouse searching for "new sources of revenues" and who rarely discovers the relation between tax collecting and tax spending

From certain popular cartoon features we may learn what we might have learned long ago from the family almanacs, namely: That people are not interested in science, which is organized knowledge, but in all sorts of queer things which may be true, but sound as if they are not.

Are Mothers Too Busy?

With all the labor-saving devices of the modern home, and with all the emphasis given to education for living, it seems strange that so many mothers have so little time to look after their children.

An interesting study of the relationships between mothers and adoescent daughters has been made public by the Woman's Home Companion, the result of Doctor Eugenic Leonard's questioning several hundred girls between the ages of 11 and 19. Barely half the girls said that they would tell their mothers when they fell in love. A fourth of those who had "wondered about God" had never asked their mothers about Him. Many said they would not let their mothers know if they smoked. A considerable number do not even mention to their mothers their personal triumphs or the school activities which most interest them.

Mothers hinder confidence, Doctor Leonard learned from the girls, in various ways — by emotional outbreaks such as nagging, yelling and weeping, but the habit of making fun, by misunderstanding, by laying stress on shame or guilt, or by sheer lack of interest.

Most striking of all, however, is the assertion that "nearly every girl studied was impressed by how busy her mother was." The discerning editor who analyzes the statistics adds this comment, "What a pity it is that our civilization has become so complex that even a daughter's moments of emergency or bewilderment or fear or pride, a modern mother is more likely than not be "too busy.'"

Supreme Court Obliterates Another Monopoly

The public at large and the American fruit grower, packer and shipper in particular, have reason to be grateful for a decision just handed down by Justice McReynolds of the United States Supreme Court. For more than five years the American Fruit Growers Incorporated has been contesting the validity of the Brogdex patent for washing fruit and vegetables with borax. The opinion of Justice McReynolds that the patent is invalid relieves the fruit trade of the possibility of paying royalties on a process that has been in general use over twenty years.

Reversing two lower courts, the opinion sustained the contention of the American Fruit Growers, Incorporated that it would be in the nature of a calamity affecting the fruit grower, shipper, and public alike, if a substance so well known and so commonly used as borax could be withdrawn from the free use of the fruit industry, or any other industry

Since fundamental principles were involved affecting a wide range of interests, the Department of Agriculture, the State of Florida, and six other states submitted memorandums citing the burden that would be imposed on the farmer and grower if the use of this disinfectant and preservative were denied them in preparing their products for market.

Testimony taken in the lower courts showed that the citrus industry in Florida and California had been accustomed to wash fruit in this mild and harmless preservative many years before the Brogdox patent was obtained. The purpose of the borax wash, like many other chemicals used, is to sterilize the skin and rind of fruit to give it greater resistance against decay and mold.

Under the previous decisions the fruit trade was already experiencing embarrassment due to restriction in the use of borax. The lower courts had not only sustained the patent on the process of using borax or boric acid, but has held that any fruits or vegetables carrying borax in the rind or skin were patented articles so that the dealer became liable to Brogdex Company for damages and accounting. Thus thousands of growers, packers and shippers, particularly of citrus fruits, were being restricted in marketing necessary food to the American public.

The relief which is thus afforded the consumer as well as the grower can be attributed to a public spirited fight on the part of the American Fruit Growers and a broad application of the law by a tribunal that endeavors to administer justice despite a maze of technicalities hampering procedure in our courts.

Choosing Public Officials

It is a rather sad comment upon our electorate that we as voters have done such a bum job of selecting officials that it seems necessary to take from us some of our election privileges. The cure lies with the voters. If they would keep county government, state government and national government clean and honest they must investigate earnestly the qualifications of those whom they choose as public servants.

Now that the government has eliminated the large currency, why not make a move toward standardizing bank checks to correspond to the new size in bills?

Love's Sacrifice
By Mildred Barbour

Lois flattened herself against the building, rigid with fear.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

Sally Todd and Lois Montgomery seek careers in New York. Sally enters hospital training, after despairing of a career in the movies, and Lois marries a wealthy man many years her senior. Their paths diverge somewhat, for Lois's husband disapproves of Sally, who is very gay. On several occasions, after late parties, she has taken drugs to carry her through the day and is dismissed from the hospital. Lois provides her with a home and Dr. Dale Randolph offers her a job. She falls in love with him. He is strongly attracted to Lois. Sally, befuddled by drugs, tells him she loves him. He dismisses her, but Lois persuades him to give her another chance. Sally, instead of being grateful, becomes jealous. Lois's husband is informed that she is in love with Randolph. He watches her closely, particularly when she is in Randolph's company. Sally's brother, Bert, who was in love with Lois at home, comes to New York. Sally tells him Lois is unhappily married and still in love with him. His attentions to Lois bring a remonstrance from Walton. Lois does not suspect that her husband, who resents her failure to aid him in realizing his social ambitions, is getting very tired of her. Hoping to find her in some indiscretion, he has her shadowed. He enlists Sally as an ally.

Chapter 70.

Retribution

Dr. Randolph's temples pounded as he waited for the passengers to alight from the Western Express. The porter dumped several bags onto the platform and turned to help a woman down the steps.

Dale Randolph took a quick step forward, straining his eyes to catch sight of Lois. Suddenly he saw her directly behind Bert, who pressed on through the line of passengers as if he wanted to give the impression that he was alone.

Now they were on the platform, and Bert walked over to the station, jingling the change in his pockets and looking about. Lois hung back until the other passengers had dispersed. Dr. Randolph touched her arm, and she screamed as she turned to face him. The sound made Bert look up. A gleam of fear shone in his eyes as he recognized the doctor, but he tried to put a bit of impudent swagger into his manner as he strolled over and said:

"Not trying to spy on us, are you, Randolph? We didn't count on company."

Somehow, he felt that this was what Lois wanted him to say, and, although he would rather have said nothing or, better still, have taken to his heels, he responded to the compulsion in her glance.

Suddenly Dale Randolph seemed to boil over. He shouted something that Bert knew to be a warning to defend himself, and even though he made his best response, he found himself sprawling on the station platform. Lois falttened herself against the building, rigid with fear. Randolph stood over Bert, his face working with rage. He heard a voice that he did not recognize as his own saying:

"Get out of here before I——"

Bert scrambled to his feet, rubbing his jaw. He snatched up his hat and disappeared around the corner of the station, without a word to Lois or a look in her direction. Dr. Randolph glanced at her quickly. She seemed on the point of bursting into tears, and he wanted to get her away, for a crowd was gathering.

He hurried her into a cab and told the driver to take them through a quiet part of town. Then, after a long silence, he said: "I'll clear out, if you want me to — or do anything else that you say. But I wish that you'd let me take you back to New York and — "

"Dale," she said quietly, "you don't realize my motive in doing all this. If you did——"

"I do understand it," he interrupted, "and that is all the more reason why I should take a hand. You think that you can save me from your husband's threats by making it appear that you have run away with Bert Todd. Maybe you can. But I won't have it. I'm not afraid of anything that James Walton can do to me, and, even if I were, I wouldn't hide behind a woman — let alone the woman I love. I care about you, and nothing else."

Lois wrung her hands despairingly. "And then I will always have to face the realization that I was, instrumental in ruining you. Can't you see ——"

"I understand only this — we have done nothing wrong, and we are not going to act as though we had. And I am not going to permit you to sacrifice yourself for my career or my reputation. Nothing that you can say will change my determination."

Lois sank wearily into a corner of the cab. She felt that she must give up, that she must now accept whatever fate should send her. She had done her best, but she had not been strong enough to carry out her plan.

She heard Dale Randolph direct the driver to return to the station, and they waited on the platform without a word until the train that was to carry them back to New York pulled in. The trip was made in silence, except that, as they neared the city, Dale Randolph said:

"I'll take you back to the Maurice. Then I will see your husband. Please wait at the hotel until you hear from me." And Lois promised.

Together they threaded their way through the crowds in the station and entered a cab. At the hotel Dale Randolph telephoned James Walton's office. There was no answer, and he suddenly realized that it was long after business hours. In the excitement of the day he had lost all track of time.

At the Walton residence he was unable to learn when the master was expected. He was too absorbed in his own thoughts to notice that the servants who answered the telephone replied to his questions in a manner that indicated suppressed agitation. In desperation he telephoned several of Walton's clubs, but drew blank at each one.

Finally he went back to his apartment, where his servants told him that Sally had tried to reach him late that afternoon and had left word that he was to call her immediately upon coming in. "She said it was most urgent, sir," the man said.

But Randolph called Lois first, and then delayed telephoning Sally, because he couldn't bear, in his present state of mind, to listen to anything unpleasant, and he had heard only unpleasant things from her for months.

When the telephone rang, he went to it reluctantly. Sally's voice, tight and full of excitement, greeted him.

"I was just about to call you," he said, with a grimace. "I came in only a moment ago."

She swept aside his explanations. "Where is Lois?" she demanded.

"At the Maurice," he returned. "What's up"

"Great heavens," she exclaimed frantically, "haven't you seen the papers? Haven't you heard?"

"What are you talking about?" he demanded. "Answer me."

"Why — James Walton is very — he had some sort of stroke this afternoon in his office. His secretary has been moving heaven and earth to find Lois. They don't expect him to live through the night."

Churches Are To Unite Good Friday

All churches of Redwood City will join in an Easter morning sunrise service at the big cross west of here Easter morning. Plans for the service are being arranged by a committee from the various denominations. The plans for the service so far arranged will comprise choral singing by a united choir, and music by a group of trumpeters and an organ.

This service was the inspiration for the following poem by a Redwood City man:

The Cross on the Hill

There's a beautiful cross
On the top of the hill,
Telling all of the Christ,
Who though buried, lives still.

On that far distant day,
On yet another cross,
His followers then felt
They had suffered great loss.

Although they were told,
So frail was their faith,
They felt themselves leaderless,
Much like the orphan or waif.

But now we all know
He is living on high;
So cheer is the word,
No time for a sigh.

But let all remember,
When gathered Easter morn,
To do homage to He
Who makes us reborn.

That not just on Easter,
Nor yet Sunday alone,
Should His teachings guide,
Or His beauty be shown.

But like He himself
We should live every day
In a way that is pleasing,
That will light other's way.

For His sacrifice was not—
Must not be in vain.
His spirit to guide us
He left to remain.

Until that great day,
When at His own call
Will be gathered together
Not just some, but all

To pass before judgment;
Account for one's life.
Then Christ will again reign,
And end earthly strife.

None will want to that day
Be left out of His fold.
But Grace now freely offered
Can not be purchased with gold.

Only by a contrite heart,
And true acceptance of Him,
Can we prevent being cut off—
Discarded as a useless limb.
Now's the time for acceptance,
During the period of Grace.
Christ died not to save one man,
But for the whole human race.

E. P. Denham,
March,1931.

MENLO PARK

The city council met in regular session Tuesday with all members present. A communication was read by the clerk from the League of Municipalities asking that the council instruct its representatives at Sacramento to vote against Senate Bill 398 which amends section 3627 A of the political code. If this bill becomes a law all taxes collected by the county assessor on intangible assets would go to the county. Under the present law this money is distributed one third to the county, one third to the cities and the remaining third to the schools. The clerk was instructed to write Assemblyman Parkman and Senator Cleveland to oppose the measure.

A protest was read from Miss Susie Gale and her mother, Margaret Gale, against the proposed plan to lay sidewalks on Laurel avenue. They said the improvement was unnecessary at this time. The protest was ordered filed.

Police Commissioner Crane read the report of Chief of Police Love for the month ending February 28. It was as follows: Licenses collected, $323; automobile violations, $112; other violations, $125; from dance hall, $55, making a total of $642.

Mrs. Fannie I. Kurtz, city clerk made her report on the finances of the city as follows: Street Improvement Fund, February receipts, $112; February disbursements, $407.25; balance, $4264.51; General fund February receipts, $531.90; February disbursements, $1724.12; balance, $3050.36.

A resolution was adopted accepting the plans and specifications for street improvement on Oak Grove avenue and adjoining streets. Blake failed to vote on the resolution.

Resolution of Intention 31-1 was then taken up and discussed and duly adopted, Blake again failing to vote. The resolution was ordered published and April 14 set as the time for hearing protests from the public, if any there may be. A resolution was also adopted setting forth that the cost of resurfacing Oak Grove avenue from the highway to Laurel avenue is to be paid out of the city treasury.

The streets to be improved under the resolution of intention are: Oak Grove avenue from the highway to Laurel avenue to be resurfaced and widened and curb and sidewalks put down, Oak Grove to the Donohoe property to have curb and sidewalk on south side, Pine street to be paved and curb and sidewalk put down to about 100 feet beyond its intersection with Cherry street, the latter street to be paved and sidewalks and curb put down to Laurel avenue. Laurel to have sidewalks and curb from Cherry street to Oak Grove to Glenwood on west side only, up Glenwood to Mills avenue and up Mills avenue to Oak Grove. Mills is to be paved and to have sidewalks and curb.

The Edwedge Golf Club asked permission to operate an out door dance on the links, for which no charge is to be made. The matter went over to April 14.

The council adjourned to April 14.

Matt Harris will have no opposition at the polls on April 6 for the position of fire commissioner of Menlo Park. He will succeed himself. Mr. Harris has made a splendid commissioner and it is well that he be retained.

The rainfall for the recent storms was .18 of an inch, making a total rainfall for the season of 8.66 inches as aganst 12.64 inches at this time last year.

Weeden Brothers, contractors, are making extensive repairs on the J. A. Donohoe home on the Middlefield road. The old home is one of the show places of the peninsula.

The Native Sons and Native Daughters are planning for the annual picnic to be held in June. The committee from both organiations is deadlocked as to which picnic ground they will select, the Kuck Park or the Mangini grounds at Portola.

The Menlo Junior College on Thursday awarded a contract to an Oakland contractor to erect a building on the Menlo campus to cost something over $48,000. Weeden Brothers of this city were the second lowest bidders. There was a sharp competition for the work.

Peter Zampieri, a native of Italy, aged 33, passed away at the Community hospital on Monday last. He was a resident of Menlo Park for the past ten years. At one time he was employed on the White estate, formerly owned by Mr. Climant. The funeral took place from the Church of the Nativity on Thursday. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery. The deceased was a member of the Owls, which organization aided him during his last illness.

L. L. Ross, through W. E. Monroe, has purchased a dwelling on Walnut avenue. Mr. Monroe also reports the sale of the Heartly home on Fifth avenue to Leslie Severe. Monroe reports considerable activity in Menlo Park real estate. No doubt this activity is brought about by the action of the city council in its paving program. Good streets always lure the home buyer and progressive citizen.

Chief of Police Love is to be commended for his consideration in handling funerals that occur in this city. He always provides from his department an escort to funerals passing the highway on the way to Holy Cross cemetery. This respect to the dead is to be admired.

George Walsh will soon be out colecting for the annual improvement of Holy Cross cemetery. Those having relatives buried in the cemetery should be generous in their contributions to this noble cause. A number of men will be engaged in about a week to start the work of clearing the weeds and grass from the walks and plots.

CARD OF THANKS

I desire to thank the many friends of my late brother, Peter Zampieri who were so kind to him in his illness and who have expressed such kind sympathy to me in his passing. I particularly wish to thank the kind nurses and doctors at the Community hospital for the excellent care given my brother, and also the many friends who were at his funeral and who have expressed their sympathy so considerately. I also wish to thank the Loyal Order of Owls for their kindness.

JOHN ZAMPIERI.

Chevrolet Dealer Attends Convention

Local participation in a move to bring business back to the level of previous years got under way this week when L. A. Lundstrum, local Chevrolet dealer went to Oakland with other members of his organization to attend a novel retail sales convention held there for all Chevrolet retail salesmen in the Oakland zone.

More than 500 attended the convention, which opened with a luncheon at Hotel Oakland and consisted of a full afternoon of instruction at the Grand Lake theatre. A feature of the luncheon was the installation of officers of the "100-Car Club", a star salesmen's honorary organization.

A carload of special scenery, and other theatrical equipment including talking motion pictures was engeged to put on the presentation, which is said to be the first and largest of its kind to be staged in the automobile industry for retail salesmen.

E. W. Fuhr, Chevrolet regional manager with headquarters at Oakland, W. J. Burns zone manager, other members of the region and zone staffs, and a factory representative from Detroit conducted the meeting, which was attended by dealers and sales managers, as well as retail salesmen.

Business sessions in the convention took the form of playlets, in which the factory officials took the part of actors and showed by actual demonstration the correct procedure in any given situation. Instead of lectures, the class of dealers and salesmen had points under discussion emphasized by seeing them presented in a dramatic and effective manner. Every phase of the automobile industry as it effects the retail salesman was included on the program.

The meeting is one of 32 held throughout the United States during March.

"The objects of the meetings," Lundstrum explained, "is to give our retail salesmen a better appreciation of our product which is better and priced lower today than at any time in our history, and to make them better and more energetic salesmen, which in turn will add to the good will of our business and our product, as well as increase our volume.

"By participating in this meeting we feel that we are better equipped than ever to get a larger volume of business from this territory than it yeilded last year. Already business is picking up, and by taking advantage of every extra means of adding to our volume we hope to make this spring one of the best years here that Chevrolet ever had.

"The move of our local field officials," he continued, "ties in with the aggressive policies adopted by the Chevrolet Motor Company to bring back business to normal. The automobile industry is the largest user of raw materials in the world, and by bringing out the 1931 Chevrolet nearly two months ahead in the annual schedule, the company was able to put mills to work which had lain idle for months, and to start the ball of general activity to rolling. The iron miner, steel worker, cotton picker and mill hand, the lumberman and glass blower, and the many other employes identified with industries which lean heavily on the automobile to use their products, felt the effects of the early announcement in greater employment and increased output."

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Sequoia Swimmers to To Meet Berkeley

Having started their swimming season with two decisive victories, the Sequoia Union high school varsity mermen will encounter the Berkeley high school swimmers in the Sequoia pool this afternoon.

Coach Jim Eva will be handicapped when he sends his team against Berkeley because of the injury of Jim Adams, star Cherokee breast stroke swimmer and medely paddler, who was hurt in an automobile accident recently. Frost, 50-yard back-stroke swimmer was added to the list of ineligibles this week and will not enter the meet today.

Berkeley high is reputed to have one of the strongest teams in the region and the Cherokees will have to be up to their best form in order to bring home the victory. The Cherokees surprised Galileo high and trounced them 52 to 24, but do not expect to run up such a score against the Yellowjackets from across the bay.

The Cherokees will have a strong squad to send against the Transbay outfit with Frank Goldthwaite entering the 50 and 100-yard free style events, and with Martin and Worrell entered in the 220-yard free style race. These swimmers are good for several firsts between them. Martin will also take charge of the medley race in which he has managed to place in the last two meets.

Gordon and Martin have taken firsts in diving so far this season and are dependable for points.

Stuart Goldthwaite will swim the backstroke event with Gibbs, while Coach Eva is still seeking a breast stroke swimmer, with Karl Frahm being the next best in line.

Sequoia Will Meet Halfmoon Bay Today

After one win and one defeat in their two league starts the Sequoia Union high school will meet the Half Moon Bay high on the local diamond this afternoon. This will be the Cherokees third Peninsula Athletic League contest.

Coach Len Casanova will have a strong squad to send against the Bay city team and is expecting a victory. The Half Moon Bay high team was defeated by the Jefferson squad 17 to 2, which reflects on the 8 to 6 defeat by the Daly City team.

The Sequoia team will have three strong pitchers to depend on as well as a strong infield, composed of last year's lightweights. McGuire will be on first; Garcia second, Tognoli, second; Maloney, third, while Jelich, Abbott, and Hoffman will comprise the outfield. Either Scheyer, Garcia, or LeRoy will undertake the pitching duties with Cullen receiving.

WOODSIDE

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Swinnerton and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Volkmann started last week for a trip into Arizona to visit the desert during the period of its springtime beauty but shortly after their arrival, Mrs. Swinnerton had the misfortune to be thrown from a horse breaking her leg. This put an early end to their vacation plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Dudley, for several years residents of Woodside, left here last June in a search for health. They have spent the intervening months among the redwood forests of Humbolt and Del Norte counties. They paid a visit to their friends in Woodside on Wednesday looking as if they had been very successful in ther search.

The children of the Woodside school presented a musical program to their parents and friends at the school auditorium on Thursday evening. The Boys Glee Club opened the program with several songs and were followed by the primary singing class rendering, 'Dandelion,' 'Twinkling Fire-Flies,' 'Daisies' and 'The Wind-flower.' The littlest ones of all did their part by offering two numbers with their 'Rhythm Band' to the great delight of the audience. Alice Zaepfell, who graduated from the school spring, returned to favor with a song.

A Fashion Show presented nine of the girls each dressed to represent a flower from the springtime garden. Then followed a cantata, 'A Quarrel Among the Flowers' and the program ended with 'An English Country Dance.' The program was under the direction of Mrs. Helen Huebener, the music director, and reflected credit upon both pupils and teacher.

Madge Brashaw will celebrate her fourteenth birthday with a party given to her schoolmates on Friday afternoon.

The London Bridge Club held its weekly session at the home of Mrs. B. D. Ralston on Wednesday evening.

High School Notes

By GEORGE SCHROEDER

Debating

Sequoia Union high school debating team will meet San Mateo in a league contest April 22 in the Sequoia auditorium.

Bill Binkley and Andy Bright will uphold the affirmative for Sequoia, on the question: "Resolved, that capital punishment be abolished in California." The negative side of the question will be defended by Tom Needham and George Hoenck on the same day at Palo Alto.

On the evening of April 22, a special debate will be held with Los Gatos at Sequoia at 7:30 in the auditorium, a small admission being charged to the general public. Andy Bright and Bill Binkley will speak for Sequoia.

With Norma Tibbetts, president, Bill Towers, vice-president, Joseph Marino, secretary, and Miss Juliane Wolters and Miss Mary Cowden, advisors, representing Sequoia Union high school, a convention of the California Scholarship Society will be held at Palo Alto Union high school April 11.

Only five members from each school are allowed to attend the banquet to be given in the evening.
